Lesson 8 | At the company

Lesson Objective

By the end of the lesson, the learner will be able to:

- Talk about company rules.
- Talk about one's responsibilities in the company.
- Write basic workplace emails

• Reading Comprehension

A Day at the Office

Emma works at a marketing company. She usually arrives at the office at 9 a.m. First, she checks her emails and replies to important messages. Then, she attends a team meeting where everyone discusses their projects.

After the meeting, Emma works on a new advertising campaign. She collaborates with her colleagues to create ideas and prepare presentations. In the afternoon, she has a video call with a client to discuss their needs.

Before leaving work, Emma updates her manager on her progress and plans her tasks for the next day.

Questions

1. What does Emma do first when she arrives at work?

……

2. What happens during the team meeting?

3. Who does Emma talk to in the afternoon?

……

4. Why does Emma update her manager?

.....

Practically Speaking

Watch the video and identify the rules of the company.

A: Now I will tell you about the company rules.

B: Yes, what are they? I will tell you some basic rules. The details will be sent to your email.

B: Yes, I understand.

A: First, about the work day. You need to be at work on time. You will work eight hours a day, five days a week.

B: How about the lunch break?

A: Lunch break will last two hours.

B: Great, I got it.

A: One more thing. The company doesn't allow you to do other things during work hours. Unless it's related to work.

B: Oh, I understand. Can I go out to buy things?

A: During working hours, if you need to go out, you must tell your manager about the time and reason.
